

moo moo cow @cattlemoomoo

8 Nov · 13 tweets · cattlemoomoo/status/1325529774924525569

What they are doing now is building build social pressure (using their mass media machine) for Biden to be accepted president

They want to build up enough social pressure to the point where not even republican politicians or judges will have the balls to do what's right

As the days go by and more and more people start accepting Biden as president the social pressure will keep building up and it will be harder and harder for the remaining people to keep resisting

This is why it was so key for them to deny Trump a victory narrative on Tuesday night no matter what bullshit excuse or fraudulent tactics they had to use

They are now relying on the social pressure they are building with the media to grab power

"B-but Muh Constitution and the legal process"

Lol what matters is social pressure and consensus

When they say "The Media determines the winner" they aren't being crazy they're admitting a truth

You can't take power if you can't generate social consensus that you've won

So what Trump needs to do right now aside from any legal process is aggressively push a counter narrative, do rallies do whatever he must

Every day the media is allowed to impose their "Biden won" narrative while the other side is silent they get stronger

The problem here that nobody fucking sees is that in any democracy the mass media has true unchecked power, more than anyone else

There is no magical system that is immune to the social pressure that the media bosses can generate at a whim

I hope Trump doesn't give up and fights till the end

Regardless, this is nothing new. The media has controlled the political process for generations

They are simply now exposing themselves with this ridiculous power grab because they feel they are close to permanent victory

So this here is a little unwritten law about social power that they don't want you to know

Social pressure and social consensus trumps any logical argument or any written words on some magical piece of paper like Muh Constitution

This is why the mass media is so powerful

If they are allowed to build up a critical mass of consensus that Biden is president then Biden will be president and nobody will be able to resist this social pressure no matter how blatantly they stole the election

Naive conservatives who trust the system are absolutely confused right now as to how Biden seems closer and closer to power despite having stolen the election so blatantly

It's because the media is imposing him as the winner by generating the consensus through brute force

As some people have been learning recently, you can't have a democracy without a free flow of information

And the flow of information through the MSM is anything but free

It's absolutely controlled

By a handful of shady unelected billionaire media bosses

If Trump and America manage to stop this coup it needs to be followed by doing something to check the power of the MSM so they can never again pull something like this

Something that would kill the MSM's control on the narrative would be having Twitter or a similar platform guaranteed as an absolute free speech platform where The People can communicate horizontally without a few unelected media bosses in the middle telling them what to think

• • •